LECTURE
at 2.30pm on Wednesday 22nd November 2017
in the Sir Michael Dumett (formerly known as the Blue Boar) Lecture Theatre

A VERY SHORT HISTORY OF ENGLAND’S CATHEDRALS

SPEAKER: PROFESSOR NICHOLAS ORME

Nicholas Orme, Emeritus Professor of History at Exeter University and Honorary Canon of Truro Cathedral, is well-known as the author of many books on social and ecclesiastical history. His writing has been described as ‘lively and accessible’ and he has long enjoyed a wide readership. His latest book: A History of England’s Cathedrals is to be published in September 2017 and will surely be of interest to many of us who are Friends of Christ Church Cathedral here in Oxford.

Professor Orme describes his theme as: ‘Cathedrals in their fullness down the centuries, not only buildings but organisations, clergy, worship, music, congregations, visitors, learning, schools, cathedral closes, relations with their surrounding cities and involvement in national history.’ The time-frame of his book is huge, spanning the centuries from 314 to the present day, and his sweeping narrative also includes reflections on cathedrals in art and literature. We are delighted to welcome him to Christ Church and look forward to hearing his ‘very short’ version of a truly fascinating subject!

After the lecture an informal tea will be served in the Lecture Theatre’s Exhibition Space.
