LUNCHTIME LECTURE
Tuesday 21st May 2019

At 12.00 noon in the McKenna Room, Christ Church

MAPPING ISRAEL – From Biblical Times to the Present Day

Speaker: Steven Feldman

Mapping the ‘Holy Land’ has fascinated explorers, theologians and cartographers for nearly 2,000 years. This talk will explore the evolution of maps of the Holy Land: the earliest sources, the influence of Jewish and Christian mapmakers, different perspectives and orientations. We will look at the work of 19th century surveyors and the role of maps in the formation of the state of Israel. And whilst steering clear of current politics, some interesting modern maps will reflect ongoing issues at the start of the 21st century.

Steven Feldman trained as an economist and worked for some years in building technology before moving into the field of Geographic Information Systems. He now specialises in geospatial technologies, and through his consultancy ‘KnowWhere’, he works as an advisor and mentor to technology business startups – particularly those with a geographic or location focus. He is a Google Maps Partner and when not working he blogs, tweets and talks about geography, technology, politics - and the Arsenal football team.

Following the talk there will be a sandwich lunch with wine and soft drinks tea/coffee.
